Brenda Dickey

I have lived in the Southwest US the majority of my life & consider myself a native New Mexican. In 1968, at the age of 8, I moved to Albuquerque, where I was raised, graduated from High School & attended the University of New Mexico. In 1993, I moved to Tucson, AZ with my husband, Greg & son, Kyle. In 2005 my family & I settled in Castle Rock, CO. I now spend my time between Castle Rock, Albuquerque & Taos creating my art & spending time with my family & friends.

I have always loved the Southwest, it is where I feel most comfortable & at home.

I have always been artistic & have dabbled in many forms of art throughout the years. My interests have included music, dance, painting, drawing, costume designing & most recently sculpting. I was surprised & honored with a second place award at the Castle Rock Art Guild for my Nativity & Lion and the Lamb.

I believe that our attributes & talents are God given & that throughout our lives, we are called & inspired by Him to do & create different things. It is my love for & my faith in Jesus Christ that inspires me & gives me the ability to create my sculptures. My hope & prayer is that He will always be honored through my creations & that all who see my sculptures will be reminded of Him & His love for us.
