Cindy Huff One Brown Arm

Cindy Huff is a life-long native New Mexico. Her art has been greatly influenced by geological, tri-cultural & anthropological sites around New Mexico & the Southwest.

Huff's business "One Brown Arm" has the statement of "Metal, Mud and Mother Nature". The phrase refers to her process of making jewelry. "Mud" is the plaster that the wax of the original art is cast in. "Metal" is the indigenous metal of New Mexico, silver. "Mother Nature" is the incorporation of the landscape painting in her "Santa Fe Window" line & also the precious & semi-precious stones used in her other works.

Ms Huff works in a variety of mediums in addition to silver. She does pastel & acrylic paintings of landscapes in an impressionistic style, wood working in custom furniture, interior design, landscape design & welding. She creates her own silver beads by making molds & casting the silver into the shapes she designs for each piece. This process truly makes her work one-of-a-kind.
