Stephen McCullough

Previously working 20 years in the banking business, Stephen McCullough has now altered his lifestyle to a full time career as an artist. Being the twin brother of an already longtime, popular artist, Michael C McCullough, Stephen has also discovered his talent for art.

His artwork ranges from Watercolor to Acrylic on canvas. He is recognized for his use of contrasting colors in his special reproductions of old petroglyphs from cliff dwelling walls. It is the process and unpredictability of creating each piece of art that challenges him, "I respect the research that is required to produce artwork from historical Native America and what it stands for."

Stephen is a member of the Choctaw Indian Nation in Oklahoma, having been placed on the Roll with the Bureau of Indian Affairs at birth. Several galleries throughout the Southwest represent him.
