Judy Moore

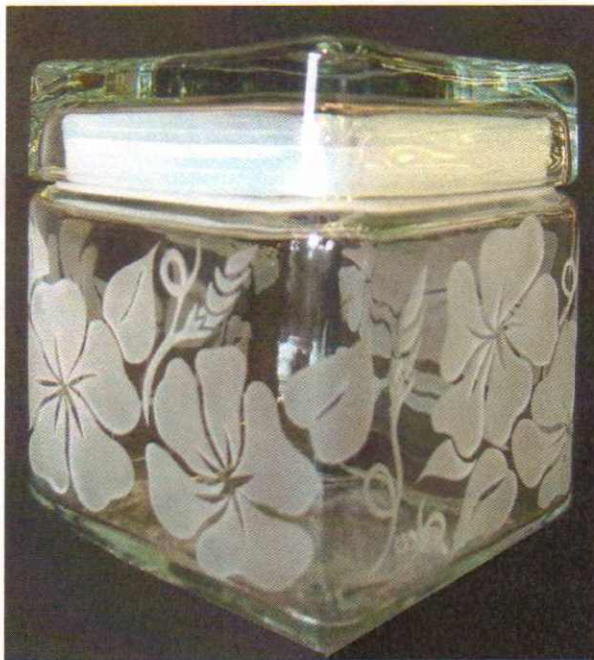

Originally from Cape Cod, Massachusetts, Judy Moore traveled to the Land of Enchantment in 1980. She fell in love with the southwestern beauty of the mountains & desert & became a resident of Albuquerque. She has always been inspired by art of all mediums. Judy believes everyone can benefit from some form of art, whether it's visiting museums, reading about artists or learning a craft. So much so, that when art was abolished as part of the APS elementary curriculum, she Judy has always loved the look & feel of glass. In 1986, she took her first stained glass class & was hooked. Working with vibrant colors & different textures, she found her calling. Then in 1991, a friend talked her into taking some sandblasting classes. She found she could incorporate her love of drawing into her sandblasting designs. Sandblasting on glass such as vases, candleholders & glass containers proved to be well received with her patrons as being both visually beautiful & functional.

Judy has always loved pleasing colors, clean lines & always banked on the motto, "less is better". She hopes these qualities are reflected in her pieces.

volunteered for three years to teach art as part of the Art in the School program, a non-profit art education program to teach elementary school children different mediums of art.
