Lavender Salve

I've had an ongoing love for healing herbs, gardening & photography for as long as I can remember. In my early adult years, I lived in the wilderness of northern New Mexico & collected herbs, photographed my surroundings & studied the life of being connected to the natural world.

Many formulas later, the present salve evolved into a consistency and blend of ingredients, that pleases me & works well, not just for the hands, but really anywhere needed to nourish & mend.

I make it in small batches with great care & with the absolute best quality ingredients available. Lavender has so many great healing benefits & also has the added bonus of being wonderfully fragrant & relaxing.

Six years ago, the making of this salve took shape during a cold winter, when I needed something that worked, to keep my hands in good condition. I had some wonderful lavender essential oil, sent to me from France as a gift, and so began the journey of making products to nourish & enjoy.

I also make dead sea mineral bath salts, adding the lavender oil & an organic comfrey salve, from the comfrey I grow here in New Mexico.
