Brian Webb

Brian Webb's artwork is found throughout the world. This Albuquerque native began working in high school on his vocation which would eventually turn into an international jewelry business.

A Swedish exchange student introduced Brian to friends from Sweden at the age of 16, who were making brass belt buckles. Brian ended up buying their equipment & adding earrings to his budding business. Two years at UNM as an engineering student gave Brian skills that he would later use to create the machinery that would enable him to expand his business into other lines. During this time he also was the light & sound man for a retro 60's band. The band members served as Brian's workers in his new expanding business.

Brian's big break came when Penneys Dept Store decided to get into Southwestern jewelry. With large wholesale orders under his belt, Brian bought his own building & the equipment necessary to continue enlarging his inventory. The rest is history. He works in sterling silver as well as in an aluminum alloy which is handground & polished. He also does specialty items in wood. Brian continues to add new lines to his ever increasing international business.

What is Alumenart?
Alumenart is the latest group of creations from designer Brian Webb. They are made from an alloy of eight different metals that are heat-treated to give it lasting durability. Each Alumenart piece is meticulously hand ground & hand polished to a brilliant luster. Alumenart creations have an excellent resistance to tarnishing & maintain a beautiful shine for years to come.

All these unique designs are from the imagination of designer Brian Webb, who's studio is located in the desert southwest. His creations have been sold in galleries, fine department stores & specialty catalogs all over the world for more than 18 years.

We think you will find these delightful accessories a quality addition to any home or office. Please feel free to call or email us with any questions or wholesale inquiries about these products.
